

090VI

090VI is an Afropop artist whose music sits at the intersection of rhythm, expression, desire, ambition and everyday experience.

Emerging with a distinct perspective and an instinct for music that connects with real-life emotions, 090VI began building his catalogue in 2020 with Sisi Caro. The release introduced an artist comfortable within the Afropop space and established the foundation for a body of work that would continue to evolve over the years.

In the same period, 090VI released H.FOD (The Head Full Of Dreams) featuring X-One. The record was presented by TooXclusive as the work of a "sensational Afropop realist" and was associated with his then-planned Proverbs album. Produced by X-One Muzik Box and mixed and mastered by Shocker, the song carried a message centred on dreams, perseverance and the hope that hard work ultimately finds its reward.

That idea of aspiration is an important thread in understanding 090VI's artistic world. His music does not exist only for the moment. It explores the emotions, relationships, desires and ambitions that shape everyday life, while maintaining the rhythmic energy and accessibility associated with contemporary Afropop.

His catalogue continued to develop in 2022 with Estoppel and Girl A Wanna Dance, alongside his appearance on Look Into Your Eyes with X-One. These releases expanded the musical picture around 090VI and demonstrated his continued movement through different shades of contemporary African popular music.

In 2023, he released Kamasutra, followed by No Go Kyll Yourself (NGKYS) in 2024. The latter was officially classified as Afro-Pop and released through Six Innovations and Entertainment.

Then came ANIKE, released on February 14, 2025. The single marked the latest release currently listed on 090VI's Apple Music catalogue and continued his progression within the Afropop space.

Across his catalogue, 090VI's identity is built around a simple but powerful idea: music should feel lived. His records move through romance, attraction, ambition, movement and the realities of everyday life, creating music designed not only to be heard but to be experienced.

From Sisi Caro to ANIKE, the journey is one of continued expression and evolution.

090VI is not simply building a catalogue. He is building a sound, a visual identity and a world of his own.
